CZECH REPUBLIC

Old Eyeglasses, A New Concept

Across Europe in 29 nations last year thousands of schools, civic groups and cities held events and hosted projects as part of the European Sustainable Development Week. Lions in Prague jumped right in, promoting eyeglass recycling, a concept new to most Czechs.

Bank employees and customers donated more than 2,000 eyeglasses at 42 branches of the Komerční Banka, a leading bank in the Czech Republic. "We were extremely pleased with the project," says Eva

Zouzalova of the Prague Strahov San Giorgio Lions Club, which organized the initiative. "Recycling of eyeglasses is not done here. People don't even know they can be recycled. Eyeglasses are thrown in the rubbish."

Czech Lions transported the eyeglasses to a Lions eyeglass recycling center in northern Italy. After being cleaned, repaired and measured, Italian Lions shipped the eyeglasses to several nations including Kenya, Mozambique, Zambia and Cambodia. An influential agency, Flagship

Sandra Zouzalova, director of Flagship Communications, proudly displays some of the eyeglasses collected by Lions in Prague.

Communications in Prague had promoted the recycling free of charge for the Lions.

Sponsored by the European Union, the first-ever sustainable development week focused on waste and resource conservation, biodiversity, green jobs/training, climate change and social inclusion.
